Turning Ideas into Impact

About the Workshop

Research2Impact 2026 is a capacity-building workshop designed to empower academicians and student researchers to translate innovative research into tangible societal, industrial, and entrepreneurial impact.

The workshop brings together experts, practitioners, funding agencies, industry leaders, and successful innovators to guide participants through the complete research translation journey.

Why Participate?

- Learn the pathway from research to real-world impact.
- Explore funding opportunities, intellectual property (IPR), startup development, and commercialization avenues.
- Understand industry-academia collaboration models for successful research translation.
- Improve research pitching, science communication, and impact storytelling skills.
- Participate in hands-on sessions, expert talks, and interactive success stories.
- Present your research and receive expert feedback on translating it into real-world solutions.
- Network with researchers, innovators, industry professionals, investors, and policy makers.
